There's a movie coming out soon, and it has got everyone talking! The Europa Report is an upcoming sci-fi thriller in which scientists explore the icy surface of Jupiter's moon Europa. The story itself takes place in 2026 when an underwater search team discovers a downed craft that lacked any contact with Earth for 40 years. Following the discovery of extraterrestrial life, tensions mount between experts who believe in the potential capabilities of such technology and others who believe what they're doing is tantamount to summoning demons from the depths. From there, things quickly spiral out of control and we find ourselves on a path to disaster — with millions on Earth potentially losing their lives. If the story of the Europa Report sounds familiar, that's because its film adaptation has been free to watch online just about since its premiere at Toronto International Film Festival in September. After all, the story has made it out into the world via countless mainstream media outlets during this time. That's right; despite only coming out in theaters on February 15th, 2014, many people have already seen The Europa Report online. Obviously, there was no way to know if non-moviegoers would actually download and watch The Europa Report online before its theatrical release, but it's pretty clear that the film is doing well for itself after this news broke. According to multiple metrics of social media traffic, interest is high. And the response of cinema-goers who finally get to see the film has also exceeded expectations. As far as how this news will impact streaming or torrenting piracy rates, that's hard to say for sure. On one hand, it seems fairly unlikely that people will suddenly start downloading a movie after seeing a trailer online and putting it up on BitTorrent networks. That being said, Sony Pictures' Blu-ray Disc release is coming up in a little more than a month and it's probably going to be available for sale fairly soon after this news broke as well. The Blu-ray release date has yet to be announced, but typically it's the first half of the year. We'll have to wait and see how it plays out. What can you do about piracy?
